Citation Table: Regulatory and Legislative Obligations

Introduction:

The citation table is a compilation of legislative citations. relevant laws listed on official government websites were consulted. The last amendment date of the law has been included. Within the table the following definitions apply:

Citation #- This column assigns numbers to each citation for comparison to the records retention schedule.
Statute/Regulation – This column refers to the name of the statute or regulation and the section numbers of each individual citation.
Requirement/Best Practice – This column distinguishes each citation as being either a legal requirement or a best practice, the latter referring to a situation where it is recommended for the organization to retain the document for a certain period of time to respond to an action or an inquiry relating to the document in question. In some cases, considerations may be statutes that do not wholly apply to the organization in question, but may be used as a guideline upon which to base a retention requirement.
Retention Description – This column provides the specific citation referred to in the Statute/Regulation column. It also includes definitions and applications for the citation. Unless otherwise stated, the retention time frame is identified by number of years.

2058	Ministry of Environment, Waste Management Improvement Program Agreement	The Ontario Ministry of the Environment's newly-proposed Bill 91 would see Waste Diversion Ontario (WDO) replaced by a new overseer body that has the power to enforce a new individual producer responsibility (IPR) regime. The legislative changes, if passed, would be part of the new Waste Reduction Act, 2013. The changes would give the new body, called the Waste Reduction Authority, the ability to issue fines for non-compliance. Bill 91 was introduced at the Ontario Legislature on June 6, 2013. The role of municipalities will be set out in the Act including the need for an agreement between producers and municipalities.

The Law Society has not set any policy requirements or guidelines.

5002	Closed Files - Retention and Disposition, Law Society of British Columbia, August 2006	Negligence actions	Best Practice	Negligence actions can be brought long after the alleged negligence has occurred. Section 3(5) of the Limitation Act, R.S.B.C. 1996, c. 266 governs professional negligence actions, which must be brought within six years of the date when the right to bring the action arose. However, under that Act several provisions operate to extend the six-year limitation period. Those which most concern lawyers are s. 6, which provides that the running of time is postponed where the plaintiff is not aware of the factual basis of the claim, and s. 7, which provides that the running of time is postponed where the plaintiff is under a legal disability. It was established in Central Trust Co. v. Rafuse , [1986] 2 S.C.R. 147, a case that dealt with professional negligence by a lawyer, that the limitation period begins to run at the date the client discovers the alleged problem. These provisions do not affect the running of the ultimate limitation period under s. 8. The plaintiff's claim will be statute-barred 30 years after the claim arose.

5010	File Retention, Law Society of Upper Canada, November 2005	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Actions against lawyers for negligence - Actions for the recovery of financial loss caused by professional negligence 	Best Practice	The Limitations Act, 2002, S.O. 2002, c. 24, Schedule B, however, significantly altered other aspects of the law of limitations in Ontario. Under section 4 of the new Act, a basic limitation period of two years is established. This new limitation period applies to actions against lawyers for negligence – actions upon the case – and to actions for the recovery of purely financial loss caused by professional negligence. The commencement of this new limitation period is governed by certain discoverability rules set out in section 5. A new “ultimate” 15 year limitation period is also established. This ultimate limitation period amounts to a complete bar to many actions, including those discussed here, 15 years after the date of the occurrence giving rise to the claim, even if not yet discovered. In certain circumstances, however, the running of this 15 year ultimate limitation period can be suspended.
------	--	--	---------------	---

5012	File Retention, Law Society of Upper Canada, November 2005	Real Estate	Best Practice	In real estate matters, the facts to support a cause of action may only be "discoverable" on sale, in some instances 20 or more years after the file is closed. Title search notes should be kept indefinitely.

5013	File Retention, Law Society of Upper Canada, November 2005	Representation of minors	Best Practice	Under the new Limitations Act, 2002, no limitation period runs during any time where the claimant is either an unrepresented minor (section 6) or is "incapable of commencing a proceeding in respect of the claim because of his or her physical, mental or psychological condition" and is "not represented by a litigation guardian in relation to the claim" (section 7). The client's age, therefore, was and will remain important in determining how long to keep documents relating to minor clients. Likewise, documents relating to the mentally incompetent client may still have to be retained indefinitely.
5014	File Retention, Law Society of Upper Canada, November 2005	Assault or sexual assault	Best Practice	Special discoverability provisions apply in the Limitations Act, 2002 Act where the claim arises from an assault or sexual assault (see section 10).

5015	Practice Advisory, Chartered Accountants of Ontario, Summer 2003	Injury, loss or damage	Best Practice	Effective January 1, 2004, the Limitations Act, 2002 comes into force which replaces most existing limitations periods with two clear limits: a basic limitation period of two years which would start from the day the person finds out, or should have found out, about the injury, loss or damage he or she suffered and who caused it; and an ultimate limitation period of 15 years after which a claim may be barred, regardless of the plaintiff's state of knowledge. Accordingly, members will be well served to maintain files for at least 15 years, and consider seeking legal advice concerning the new Limitations Act if they have concerns.
