Re: City of Brampton Federal Election Priorities

Dear candidate,

I write to you today to highlight the importance of this election to the City of Brampton and our residents. Recently, the population of Brampton has surpassed Mississauga for the first time since our municipalities were incorporated. This means Brampton is now the seventh-largest city in Canada. This is a testament to the rapid growth our city continues to experience with Brampton's population reaching one million residents in the coming years. Our population growth and our young, well-educated workforce represent an incredible opportunity, but not without significant challenges.

Our City Council is united and focused on building a prosperous, healthy, safe, sustainable, and successful community. The federal government is an integral partner for the City of Brampton. The funding and policy decisions by the Government of Canada are crucial elements in our journey of building a successful city. Brampton looks to the federal government to help advance our growth priorities and improve the quality of life for all Brampton residents.

Over the last several years, Brampton has worked collaboratively with the federal government to move the needle on several long-standing challenges and pressing issues we face as a city and a country.

I look forward to welcoming each of you to City Hall to share with you some of the incredible opportunities our city has in front of us and to sign our pledge to support Brampton's federal priorities on health care, transit, housing and public safety. Together we can build an even brighter future.

Sincerely,

Patrick Brown, Mayor of Brampton
