PROTECTION STARTS HERE

@ DIXIE SANDALWOOD PARK

This mural contrasts a vibrant Credit River, teeming with wildlife like brook trout and turtles, against polluted water flowing from the street into the catchbasin. The split design emphasizes how everyday actions impact the river's health, urging viewers to protect local waterways by preventing pollution from entering storm drains.

WHAT WE LEAVE BEHIND FLOWS FORWARD

@ CREDITVIEW SANDALWOOD PARK

This mural transforms the catchbasin into a portal, revealing the Credit River's underwater world. Paint, plastic, and waste pour in from above, clouding the water and harming wildlife. This piece highlights how street-level pollution directly impacts aquatic life, urging viewers to recognize that every action ripples through the river.
